
cracked version appsQ: Word for "restrictions" on what one can do I'm looking for a word (or group of words) to describe restrictions on what one can do. Example, in Chess: "The king may only move 1 square at a time, so, in general, this is how one limits one's moves." I'm asking this because I'm trying to write a paper for a math class, and I'm having a hard time finding a good word to represent this type of restriction. I'm thinking words like "limitations", "forbiddens", "restrictions", and "limitations" (several times) don't seem very natural in the context of a paper. I'm having the hardest time coming up with the correct English for this concept. A: You're looking for the limiting conditions: "The king may only move 1 square at a time, so, in general, this is how one limits one's moves." This passage illustrates the usage of the word to convey your idea. Purification of RNA molecules after the reduction of an oxidized guanine residue. A procedure is described for the rapid purification of small amounts of RNA, after the reduction of an oxidized guanine residue. This method is based on the use of thiol-derivatized oligonucleotides to a double-stranded complex with the oxidized nucleotide. The synthetic oligonucleotide is partially reduced in a solution containing a small amount of [3H]dTTP as a radioactive guanine precursor, by either a reductant inactivated by the trityl group or a reduced molybdenum species. After partial degradation of the RNA with RNase, the trityl group is removed by ether washing, and then the [3H]dTMP
