I want to print the following one, or the other, depending on if the variable "out_of_time" is equal to 'True' or 'False', but I want it to print "other" if any thing else needs to be printed. This is my code: if out_of_time == 'True': print 'error' sys.exit(0) elif out_of_time == 'False' print 'exceptions' sys.exit(0) else: print 'other' A: Don't use else. ELSE is the wrong word to use to find out what to do in case of something failing. Use the obvious indentation for it: if out_of_time == 'True': print 'error' sys.exit(0) if out_of_time == 'False': print 'exceptions' sys.exit(0) else: print 'other' Else is supposed to be used for something that can only be executed once (else, in this context means if), not for the meaning of "no" in a sentence: if out_of_time == 'True': print 'error' else: print 'exceptions' if out_of_
